

ACCOMPANYING COSTS FOR VOICE STUDENTS

Any student studying individual voice at Rider University should expect, in most cases, to hire an accompanist. Students enrolled in voice study and/or who are registered for a recital will be automatically charged the university accompanist fee and may opt out of the fee and program if they choose to provide their own accompanist. The per-semester fee is not refundable in any part should a student discontinues voice study or decides to seek out another accompanist. In addition, all voice students are charged a non-refundable studio fee to cover accompanist costs for studio classes and auditions. For additional information, see Tuition and Fees on Rider's website: <https://www.rider.edu/offices-services/financial-aid-scholarships/tuition-fees/undergraduate-tuition-fees> (https://www.rider.edu/offices-services/financial-aid-scholarships/tuition-fees/undergraduate-tuition-fees/).
